[SIGHS]

Stop looking at me.

[QUIRKY MUSIC PLAYING]

[DOOR OPENS]

Mm, pancakes. The Peanut is thrilled.

You are wearing the maternity jeans I bought you.

Glad you're happy about that.

You're weeks pregnant.

Your weight has increased . pounds, and our baby is moving lower.

Hmm. At least there's pancakes.

We need to buy a minivan.

No, we don't.

The Striped Tomato

has no infant safety features.

Shaun, I just surrendered to maternity jeans.

This is not the right time for broaching the "Mom-mobile."
When would be the right time?

These are amazing.

- Did you use buttermilk?
- Greek yogurt.

Mm.

I will e-mail you my spreadsheet of child-safe vehicles.
We can discuss it on your lunch break.

[SAD MUSIC PLAYING]

Sonja Baylor?

Wait. Who's the Code Gold?

Is it Taylor Swift?

Did her broken heart finally give out?

Better. Roland Barnes.

[ENGINE REVS]

[ASHER] The green tech guy?

He was att*cked by a tiger.

[CLEARS THROAT] Sorry. In San Jose?

At his exotic animal rescue in the Santa Cruz Mountains.

Concierge doctor called to say they're on their way.

San Jose General is much closer.

– Why would he come here?

– [DR. ANDREWS] Because of you.

[JARED] Deep chest wall lacerations, multiple rib fractures,
hemopneumothorax.

I stabilized him and placed a chest tube, but he needs a CT, stat.

– Dr. Kalu.

– Dr. Andrews.

[DRAMATIC MUSIC PLAYING]

Good to see you, Dr. Murphy.

Oh, hello... Jared.

A famous billionaire and a cute reunion?

This is almost Swift-worthy.

[THEME MUSIC PLAYING]

[ASHER] Is Leo a decent poker player?

Us Weekly

has photos of Roland

coming out of his game last week.

Won my Lambo off him.

No sign of trauma

to the liver or spleen.

Ugh. Beyonce did a private show at his birthday?

Ah. It was awesome.

No major intraperitoneal hematoma.

Moving on to the chest.

So, how does one go from St. Bon's resident to concierge doctor

for the fifth richest man in the world?

I was working at Denver Memorial

when I met Roland

at a fundraiser hosted by my parents.

His wife collapsed

during the silent auction.

Nutmeg allergy.

I gave her an epi and helped her to outbid John Legend for a weekend at an underwater hotel.

– Well...

– [CHUCKLES]

Roland hired me that night.

Why does he need a personal physician?

Does he often get att*cked

by wild animals?

Uh, chronic sciatica.

And he travels a lot, you know,
so there's vaccines,
plus BOTOX injections,
cholesterol scripts,
medical advice for friends and family.

Why'd you leave St. Bon's?

He was fired for assaulting an attending who harassed Claire, and then he sued the hospital.

– You're that guy.

– Yeah.

I hear Andrews is, uh,
not your biggest fan.

Surprised he let me in the building.

Depressed and dislocated sternum, manubrium, and rib fractures.

They're too fragmented for a standard sternal reconstruction.

[DRAMATIC MUSIC PLAYING]

– He still does this, huh?

– [ASHER] Mm.

Always makes my day.

I have an idea.

This is why I brought Roland here.

[ULTRASOUND MONITOR BEEPS]

It's a girl.

We're naming her Esther.

We hope she'll be brave and selfless like Queen Esther,

baddest bitch in the Bible.

How are the meds going?

Fine.

Any excessive discharge?

Oh, a couple of days ago,

I was on a walk,

and it was a little like

I'd peed myself.

Could that be from the MilliDox?

No, you're actually on the placebo.

Your amniotic fluid is a bit low.

We should admit you for further testing.

He asked for you.

Inoperable leiomyosarcoma with major vascular involvement.

[DRAMATIC MUSIC PLAYING]

What are you doing here?

I'm dying.

My doctors say that there's nothing they can do for me.

I'm hoping you can.

We should get a CT and a PET scan.

Fine.

[SHAUN] We will completely rebuild your sternum and anterior chest wall with donor bones and titanium plates.

It is a very complicated surgery.

Jared says you're a damn good surgeon.

Yes, I am a damn good surgeon.

[DR. ANDREWS CHUCKLES] He is.

And I'll be overseeing your care every step of the way.

Appreciate the personal attention.

I want Jared there, too.

Jared is my doctor.

Dr. Kalu will be read in on every major decision.

I want him in the OR.

[DRAMATIC MUSIC PLAYING]

I will fast-track your surgical privileges.

[MRI MACHINE WHIRS]

Something's going on between you two.

I'm very perceptive that way.

– It's a long story.

– Hmm.

I saw on his chart he's from Phoenix, and he broke his arm a couple years ago at a Tae Kwon Do match, your sport.

So, I'm gonna go with he's your Johnny Lawrence who cheated during your match at the All Valley tournament.

I've been watching a lot of Cobra Kai.

He slept with my wife,
so yes to the cheating,
no to the tournament.

[CLEARS THROAT]

[MOUSE CLICKS]

This is from six months ago.

This is from today.

A leiomyosarcoma should have progressed more than that.

Yeah, maybe they had the diagnosis wrong.

[DRAMATIC MUSIC PLAYING]

[MONITORS BEEPING]

[DR. ANDREWS] Release the pectoral muscles from the attachment medially.

[ASHER] Should I place the low-profile plate?

[JARED] Don't you need to create a landing zone for the fixation?

He is right.

Get better exposure by elevating the right pectoral muscle from the ribs.

I understand SF General's cardiac unit is named after your boss and that he sponsored a surgical exchange program with Haiti.

Dr. Kalu, would you like to place the screws?

Very much so.

Thank you, Dr. Andrews.

Drill guide, self-tapping screws.

[DRAMATIC MUSIC PLAYING]

– [CHUCKLES] Feels good.

– [DRILL WHIRS]

You have been very polite to Dr. Kalu, despite having fired him.

Is that only because you want a donation from Roland?

– [JARED] It's okay. You don't...

– [DR. ANDREWS] It's true.

Dr. Kalu and I did not part on the best of terms,

but I'm happy you found your niche.

And I believe in the work we do here,

and Roland Barnes

can help us do even more.

I told Roland this was the best hospital in the state.

When we get him healthy,

I'll be happy to tell him again.

[MONITOR ALARM]

BP's dropping. Cardiac output is awful.

[DR. ANDREWS] He's in heart failure.

The cardiac contusion must have been too small to spot on CT.

[SHAUN] He needs a balloon pump to help his heart circulate more blood.

And we need to get it in the next five minutes, or he dies.

BP has stabilized.

Cardiac output is improving.

He should make a full recovery,
but he should not get so close to jungle cats in the future.

In the... In the OR,

I really missed that.

Then why did you stop being a surgeon?

Um, working for Roland was too interesting

an opportunity to pass up.

Is sciatica interesting to you?

No, it's more, um...

– I came as soon as I heard.

– Hey.

Poor Rolly.

Uh, Shaun, this is my girlfriend Dalia.

Hi.

You...

I have seen you on the bus

in a–a perfume ad.

[CHUCKLES]

Fern test confirms

it's a premature rupture of the membranes.

We should terminate before an infection sets in.

What about in-patient expectant management and antibiotics?

PPROM pregnancies
can be carried to term.

Rarely, and when they are,
babies are likely to have cerebral palsy,
neurologic abnormalities, intellectual disability...

Which we'll tell the parents,
but this is a badly-wanted pregnancy.

They've been trying to conceive for five years,

had two first-trimester miscarriages already.

Saving the baby may be her priority.

But saving her is ours.

Sonja is our patient.

We should explain her options
but recommend termination.

Morgan is right,
but be clear about the options.

[TENSE MUSIC PLAYING]

The seat springs allow the car seat to move more than one inch, which creates additional injury risk.

There are no over-shoulder seat belts in the back for the car seat, no crumple zone, and you would have to install a roll cage, which still would not be as reliable as one built into the vehicle.

Since you hate minivans,
I have looked into hatchbacks and SUVs with sufficient safety features.

It's not just about hating minivans.

– What is it about?

– I love this car.

It's my history.

My brother and I restored it, used to drive it to shows
at The Fillmore.

You and I took it on our first road trip. I can't sell it.

Then... we do not have to.

As long as you never put the Peanut in it.

We still need a family car.

Yeah, we do.

[CELL PHONE CHIMES]

Roland's awake.

[GENTLE MUSIC PLAYING]

But it's possible that we could save our baby?

You'd have to live here.

We'd monitor you every day and give you prophylactic

antibiotics and steroids

when the baby gets closer to viability.

[DR. REZNICK] To be clear, even with all of that,

you may still develop a serious uterine infection that could require a hysterectomy or cause fatal complications.

[MONITOR BEEPING]

I think we should terminate.

What would you do...

if it was your baby?

Termination is the safest.

I was talking to Dr. Allen.

I would...

pray on it.

And then?

I want to know what you would do.

[CONTEMPLATIVE MUSIC PLAYING]

[EXHALES SOFTLY]

I think I...

would try to save the baby.

[SNIFFLES]

We have to fight for our Esther.

[PEREZ] We'd need a biopsy

before we can give you any definitive answer.

Okay.

So, when do we do that?

I'll give you a detailed referral to take to another doctor.

If I wanted to go to another doctor,

I would have.

I don't have to keep treating you.

But you will.

You're not a quitter.

You worked your ass off to save your marriage.

You never tapped out in a fight. You...

I always admired your persistence.

I kinda hated it, too.

[WISTFUL MUSIC PLAYING]

Looking back at my life...

I don't like the view.

I hurt... a lot of people.

[CHUCKLES]

That's the real reason that I came here.

For forgiveness.

[TENSE MUSIC PLAYING]

The intra-aortic balloon pump worked.

You won't need a new heart.

Great.

So, when can I get out of here?

Oh, not for a few days.

We will need to monitor you for post-surgical complications.

Your heart rate is elevated.

Have you been exerting yourself?

[CHUCKLES]

[QUIRKY MUSIC PLAYING]

She did most of the exerting.

– [MONITOR ALARM]

– Okay.

I need , milligrams levetiracetam and milligrams lorazepam, stat!

Is Rolly gonna be okay?

[KNOCK ON GLASS]

Roland had a seizure.

You... should sit down.

[DOOR CLOSES]

Dalia was there.

Naked.

They were having sex.

[CHUCKLES SOFTLY]

Dalia and I aren't together.

She's with Roland.

It's part of the gig.

I pretend she's with me so Roland's wife doesn't get suspicious that Dalia's always around.

Oh.

You think that sex

brought on the seizure?

Oh. Arousal can increase the heart rate by %,

and if his brain
was also deprived of oxygen,
it could cause a seizure,
which would mean his heart is still not pumping enough blood.

Does it bother you to have to lie on a regular basis?
It's not my favorite responsibility, but it's a great job, so...

Why is it a great job?

On my last day, Shaun, you told me that one day I will be very happy.

But I was miserable.

I felt like a failure.

And then I met Roland,
and he saw something in me,
this guy that I really admired,
that the world admired.

You know, he... he valued me.

And I certainly don't mind flying private to Amsterdam to have rijsttafel with the Queen of the Netherlands.

I also said you would fulfill your potential.

And I'm not doing that?

No.

Sciatica?

Thanks for reminding me

I'm still a failure.

I'll get the BNP test and echo and check out his heart.

[SOMBER MUSIC PLAYING]

[DR. PARK] Inject saline

to get us to submucosal plane.

[MONITOR BEEPING]

Why'd you stay on the case?

There's the tumor.

He was right.

I take my obligations seriously.

Take four samples.

Not because some part of you wants to forgive him?

Withdraw the scope slowly.

– He doesn't deserve it.

– [GLOVES SNAP]

Let's start with a sofa.

[DR. GLASSMAN] Let's take a look.

Finally, somebody recognizes my interior design genius.

Looks nice.

[GRUNTS]

Hey, I love this. I'll take it.

No.

This is literally

the first thing you've sat on.

Okay, I'll sit in ten other ones,

and then I'll take this one.

No. If you know you like something,

stick with it.

Like my car.

Shaun wants to buy a minivan.

And what, you want to put your infant in a ' Gran Torino?

No. It's not safe for a baby.

But...

[SIGHS] it is...

cool.

Even when I am going to my super grown-up job

in my lady-boss pantsuit,

I get to get out of that car,

and I'm cool.

And soon, I will be just another –something mom

in a practical car

with a baby seat in the back and spit-up on my shirt.

[CHUCKLES]

Maddie's mom used to warn me to take two shirts

whenever I went out with the baby.

– I had to learn the hard way.

– How?

H–How do I want this baby so badly,

but feel so icked out by being a mom?

Define "icked out."

Like...

mnh.

– [CHUCKLES]

– I don't know.

Okay, that's well said.

[LAUGHS] I don't know.

Hey, you got mixed emotions.

Welcome to the human condition.

I'm gonna take this one.

Her fever's hiked.

She's in a lot of pain.

Her heart rate's . Fetal heart rate . They're both tachycardic.

milligrams acetaminophen and start ampicillin.

This is the infection

we were worried about.

Your baby is very unlikely to survive,
and your life is in danger.

We need to terminate now.

But her heart's still beating.

Esther can only stay alive in utero,
and as long as she's in there,
you'll keep getting sicker.

I'm so sorry.

I'm here. We can get through this.

We can try again.

[SNIFFLES] No.

Your baby needs at least two more weeks to be viable, and if we wait that long,
you will probably die.

"If I perish, I perish."

That's what Queen Esther said before she risked her life to save her family.

Sonja.

"If I perish...

I perish."

[DR. ANDREWS] According to your BNP test and echo, your seizure was not related to heart trauma.

The EEG will let us assess your brain.

So, what's your pitch?

Hospital presidents
don't supervise EEGs.

I've been very impressed by your Global Engineers Initiative, and I think we can do
the same thing with medicine, train doctors from the developing world to take care of their own people.

What makes St. Bon's the place to do it?

We're very hands-on here.

Our residents don't just do appies and lap choles.

With the guidance of our attendings, they come up with complex treatment solutions, untangle the thorniest ethical dilemmas, and learn how to provide top-notch patient care.

If we could sponsor more residents from the developing world, we'll send them home ready to serve their communities.

But Jared, who I trust with my life, wasn't good enough to be one of those residents.

You fired him.

You saw something in him I missed.

– Mm.

– But I'm seeing it now,
and I've granted him full access.

That's a very politic answer.

What do you think, Jared?

Has he earned my money?

I learned a tremendous amount here at St. Bon's, and as you've experienced,

the care is top-notch.

Mm, unfortunately, the food isn't.

Oh, text Dalia and ask her to bring us back some of those, um, pork buns from Yank Sing. Ohh.

Dalia went into the city?

Mm-hmm, to meet up with friends.

And you're okay with that?

Why wouldn't I be?

No reason.

Uh, all right.

Let's start this.

Close your eyes and relax.

Labs confirm Sonja has chorioamnionitis.

We should add gentamicin.

That would damage the baby's kidneys.

It's our only way to keep Sonja alive,

and it buys us time

to convince her to terminate.

She's being suicidal.

Risking your life for your child is usually considered admirable.

Not if you're both going to die...

because of the false hope you gave her.

I answered a patient's question.

You gave her permission.

We're supposed to at least try to be objective.

Objectivity is a myth, especially on this subject.

I know the pain Sonja's grappling with.

So do I.

I was in med school, on birth control, and I got pregnant anyway.

I wasn't ready for a kid.

I was scared...

and sad...

and relieved.

It was medical procedure

I had years ago,

and I'm at peace with it now.

Most women are.

Because it was their choice.

A choice you got to make,

and I did, too.

Let Sonja make hers.

It's not our job

to help patients choose death.

[CELL PHONES CHIME]

Her lungs are failing.

[SIGHS]

– Her O sets are falling.

– Fever's climbing.

I promise.

I love you.

Shaun, check out the activity

in the left frontal lobe

from Roland's EEG.

Interictal spikes.

They are very small, likely incidental.

Hmm.

Roland's selfish and possessive.

He hates it when people have fun without him,

but today he was totally fine with Dalia hanging out with friends

while he's stuck here.

Being unselfish is a symptom.

Maybe one of his wounds got infected.

Bacterial encephalitis from the claws or teeth.

This could be subtle edema.

Plus behavioral changes and interictal spikes.

That sounds like neurocysticercosis.

– A tapeworm cyst.

– With larva in the brain.

But it would take a tapeworm weeks to fully form larva

and a cyst in his brain.

The attack was two days ago.

Ooh.

Roland's last local safari was about two months ago, and he fell into a giant pile of tiger crap.

We can remove the cyst and larva with stereotactic navigation and hydrodissection.

– Awesome.

– Oh!

[UPBEAT MUSIC PLAYING]

I got it in two.

What's up with you?

Joe.

Mia's Joe?

Waiting on his biopsy results.

He asked me to forgive him.

What did you say?

I refused.

You would have, too.

Hmm, well, maybe.

Then again, I am capable of letting things go.

I can let things go.

I prioritized my career for a day,

which you decided was unacceptable,

even after I changed my mind.

when you poach my employees.

[QUIRKY MUSIC PLAYING]

[LAUGHTER]

This is so good,
especially after a day like today.

[SIGHS DEEPLY]

– To our differences.

– [JORDAN] Mm.

– [CELL PHONE ALARM RINGS]

– [DR. REZNICK] Mm. If you'll excuse me.

Time to exercise
my reproductive freedom.

I'm doing my third round of IVF.

You're gonna go jab yourself in the belly alone

in the hospital bathroom?

Gimme.

– I am a doctor.

– [JORDAN] Mm.

[DR. LIM CHUCKLES]

Have at it.

To reuniting with old friends.

[CHUCKLES]

And a mommy mocktail

with fresh rosemary.

[LEA] Yum.

Love having bougie Kalu back.

To Jared...

[LEA] Mm.

...fulfilling his potential as my new first-year resident.

[GENTLE MUSIC PLAYING]

[KNOCK ON DOOR]

Oh, it's probably Glassy.

You Dr. Shaun Murphy?

Yes.

I am an attending surgeon

at San Jose St. Bonaventure Hospital.

You've just been served.

You're being sued for malpractice.

[QUIRKY MUSIC PLAYING]

It wasn't Dr. Glassman.
